Marshall, Stuart Admit Failure In China

AMERICANS SEE LITTLE HOPE OF CHINESE PEACE

'Disastrous Collapse' Of Country's Economy Seen If Fighting Goes On

SHANGHAI, Aug. 10 — Gen. George C. Marshall and U. S. Ambassador John Leighton Stuart in a joint statement admitted today failure in their effort to conciliate China's warring Communist and Nationalist factions.

"It appears impossible for the two parties to reach a settlement of certain issues which would permit issuance of a general order for complete cessation of hostilities in all China," the statement said.

The statement did not indicate that Marshall and Stuart were giving up completely in their fight to prevent China from erupting into full scale civil war. But it indicated deepest pessimism over the results of Marshall's months-long fight to achieve an agreement between the two groups.

An unofficial report circulated in Nanking that Marshall would return to the United States about Sept. 15, "with little likelihood that he would return to China." Nanking advisers noted that the statement was given out at a time when the situation appeared hopeless as a result of an apparent decision by the Nationalists to obliterate the Communists militarily.

The statement said that "fighting is daily growing more widespread and threatening to engulf the country and pass beyond the control of those responsible."

China's economic situation, said Marshall and Stuart, is so critical that it "demands prompt solution if a disastrous collapse is to be avoided."

They described as the chief stumbling block to agreement between the Nationalists and Communists the question of political control, particularly the character of local or county governments.

MARINES AGAIN INVOLVED IN CHINA SKIRMISH

PEIPING, Aug. 10 — U. S. Marine headquarters announced today that four Marine guards riding in the caboose of a coal train which was attacked 60 miles northeast of Tientsin last night returned the fire and reported two probable Chinese casualties.

An armed band of about 50 unidentified Chinese attacked and derailed the train. Headquarters said the Marines suffered no casualties. They were picked up today by an 80-man rescue expedition.

The wreck disrupted traffic on the Tientsin-Chingwangtao railway, but repairs were expected to be completed tonight.

The incident was the second involving Marines and Chinese within two weeks. It occurred when a group of American and Communist members of executive headquarters were investigating the first attack at Anping.

Check Looted Mead Files

GEORGE MEADER, chief counsel of the Mead-Senate investigating committee, and Clerk Mary Harmer examine files from which, according to Senator James Mead, five classes of documents on the Garson munitions combine were stolen. Meader stated that the Garson empire had "an inside track" while its affairs were under investigation.

How To Apply For GI Terminal Leave Payment

WASHINGTON, Aug. 10 — The war, navy and treasury departments today outlined for the former enlisted man of the armed services the procedure he must go through to get the terminal leave pay coming to him under the law just signed by President Truman.

These steps are:

1. Obtain from any post office a form entitled "claim for settlement of unused leave" and the instruction sheet that goes with it.
2. Fill out the form. If you need help, contact a veterans community information center or a veterans service officer.
3. Swear to or affirm the statements made in the form before a notary public or other civil officer authorized to administer oaths.
4. Mail the completed form, together with your discharge certificate or certificate of service, to the appropriate service paying officer listed on the reverse side of the claim form. A photostatic copy or an officially certified copy of discharge papers may be substituted for the original.
5. The paying officer will examine the documents and mail them back to the claimant. Payment will be made as soon as possible. The government cautioned that it was a big job and would take time.
6. If less than $50 is due, the claimant will get a check for the full amount. Payment will be in bonds in multiples of $25, with any odd amount by check, for claims exceeding $50.
7. All payments are to be made at the rate of pay in effect on separation from the service. All claims must be filed by Sept. 1, 1947.
8. The maturity date of the bonds is determined not by the date on which the claim was filed, but the date of separation from service. They mature in five years, and bear 2½ per cent interest.
9. The bonds are non-negotiable. But they may be used in payment of premiums on government or national service life insurance.

Truman Denies Decision On British Partition Plan For Palestine

JERUSALEM, Aug. 10 — A report of uncertain origin that President Truman had accepted the plan for the partition of Palestine caused police to cancel leaves and recall their men to barracks today.

The unofficial and unconfirmed report of Mr. Truman's agreement to the partition proposal circulated rapidly through Jerusalem. Authorities awaited confirmation and details before commenting.

Observers were concerned over the possible impact of the report on the Jewish underground forces. The Jews did not conceal their disappointment.

British troops and police for the first time turned their search for extremists to the mixed Arab-Jewish quarter of Jerusalem.

Searchers moved at sunrise through the upper Bakaa quarter near the Jerusalem railroad station, where both Jews and Arabs live. First reports said five Jews were arrested. Some arms and ammunition were found.

Authorities suspected that members of the Irgun Zvai Leumi and the Stern gang were hiding among the Arabs, thinking the search might not reach them.

The Arabs were extremely sensitive to the search. It was the Arab month of Ramadan.

WINFIELD KOCH NEW CHILDREN'S HOME DIRECTOR

Mrs. Koch Is Named Matron By Trustees; Porters To Leave Soon

Appointment of Winfield Koch, of Whisler, to the post of superintendent of the Pickaway County Children's Home, was announced Saturday. His wife will serve as matron at the institution.

They will succeed Carl Porter and his wife, Emil, who have resigned as superintendent and matron, respectively, after having served in those capacities for approximately three years.

Selection of the new superintendent was made at a meeting of the board of trustees of the Children's Home, held Friday night, from a field of more than a dozen applicants.

Koch is 37 years old and he and Mrs. Koch are the parents of one child aged 5 years.

Porter submitted his resignation at a meeting of the trustees held Aug. 1. No reason was given. The resignation was accepted. He is expected to relinquish the post within the next few days. The position is subject to state civil service regulations.

The salary is $100 a month for the superintendent, and $75 a month for the matron, plus full maintenance. Members of the board of trustees are: Probate and Juvenile Judge Sterling M. Lamb, David Dunlap, Nelson Baker, Wilson Dunkle and Roy White.

PRISONERS SHOT WHILE POSING

Army Colonel Says Nazis Used Photo Ruse To Line Up Victims

WASHINGTON, Aug. 10 — Col. Henry Rosenfeld, Jr., U. S. prosecutor in the war crimes trial at Dachau, Germany, disclosed today that the Nazis shot many American and British soldier prisoners after they had been grouped together under ruse of having their pictures taken.

Rosenfeld, a native of Camden, N. J., said in an interview at the war department that the atrocities occurred at the Mauthausen extermination camp. Nazis responsible for the soldiers' death are being tried at Dachau.

The room where the American and British soldiers were shot, he said, was "conveniently" located next door to a crematory where bodies of 125,000 victims of the Mauthausen extermination camp were turned into fertilizer.

Senator Bilbo Admits KKK Membership; Accuses Taft Of Seeking Red Support

WASHINGTON, Aug. 10 — Sen. Theodore Bilbo, D., Miss., admitted last night that he was a member of the Ku Klux Klan, and accused Sen. Robert Taft, R., O., of seeking the support of American "reds" as a presidential candidate.

"He will take anything he can get," Bilbo said.

Bilbo, advocate of "white supremacy," participated in a radio interview over the Mutual radio system.

Pickets appeared in front of Mutual's Washington and New York stations when they heard Bilbo was on the air.

Bilbo said he welcomed the opportunity to clear up several misunderstandings about himself and his state.

Byrnes Engages Molotov In Diplomatic Battle

DRAMATIC MOMENT at the Paris peace conference is caught by the camera as Secretary of State James F. Byrnes takes the floor and fires a verbal salvo at Russian Foreign Minister V. M. Service Veterans To Fight 'Yell County Machine'

DANVILLE, Ark., Aug. 10 — Dissident Army veterans here today set August 23 for presentation of an all-GI slate of candidates to oppose the "Yell county family political machine" of Chancellor John Chambers.

In grim, but stormy session last night, a 31-man committee—one man from each township—was named to draw up the ticket.

They threatened to emulate the recent McMinn county, Tenn., political upheaval if their candidates don't receive a square deal.

More than 1,000 former servicemen and sympathizers roared their approval as spokesmen hurled the charge of "dictatorship" at the present county administration here.

Dr. J. K. Grace, Bellvue (Yell county) physician, termed the meeting the first step to break what he termed Chambers' 26-year regime in the county.

"We're out to crack this machine. We think the people of Yell county are behind us, but are afraid to turn out and say so," he said.

He charged irregularities in the July 30 primary election in which Earl Ladd, county treasurer and tax assessor for the past 20 years, defeated war veteran Tommy Patterson, and two other candidates for sheriff.

Grace claimed some precincts with 35 to 50 voters cast as many as 150 votes.

"What's the use of taking this case to court," Grace demanded. "None of the officials here would give us a chance."

His charge that "they're all related," brought a thunder of approval from the meeting.

The Rev. Phil Beech, Baptist minister, said, "There has been a dictatorship existing here. The forces of evil have, and do, exist in Yell county, because church members have told me so."

No weapons were in evidence at the meeting and it remained well within the control of Chairman W. C. Lauder, a World War I veteran.

There were no charges of political corruption or graft made in the meeting, other than Grace's declaration of vote irregularities.

Chambers, apparently unflinched, yesterday denied the presence of a machine here.

"Of course I do things for the folks and expect them to do some things for me. But we are no machine," he said.

Retiring Sheriff Compton, holder of county offices for 20 years, declared, "It's no machine. But we're kind folks and we stick together."

John Ed Chambers, war veteran son of Chancellor Chambers and president of his father's bank, brushed off last night's meeting as a gathering of "bad losers."

1946 CROPS MAY BREAK RECORDS

Official Sees Chance Yield May Be Higher Than Early Predictions

WASHINGTON, Aug. 10 — An agriculture department spokesman said today there is a good chance 1946 farm production will top record-breaking levels predicted by the department's crop reporting service.

The crop board said that if present prospects are borne out, farm production this year will be about 27 per cent above the 1923-32 average and three per cent above 1942 — the previous banner production year.

Both corn and wheat are expected to hit new highs. Wheat production was estimated at 1,160,000,000 bushels and corn at 3,496,280,000 bushels. The previous highs were 1,123,000,000 bushels of wheat in 1945, and 2,302,000,000 bushels of corn in 1944.

The department spokesman pointed out, however, that the board's predictions consistently have been conservative. Over a 10-year period, he noted, the crop has averaged 5.57 per cent larger than the board's Aug. 1 prediction.

If this year's prediction is low by the same percentage, the corn crop may average nearer 3,671,000,000 bushels.

RULING ON SALE OF LIQUOR NEAR FAIR DELAYED

COLUMBUS, Aug. 10 — State Liquor Director Robert M. Sohngen revealed today that he would not release a ruling on whether liquor permit holders must cease operations while fairs are open in their immediate area until early next week.

The department said no local officials had requested that state liquor stores be closed along with private permit holders. If and when that request is made, the director will hand down a ruling, it was stated.

Latest county to prohibit the sale of liquor within a two mile radius of local fairs was Muskingum, whose officials are ordered approximately 100 drink spots in Zanesville and South Zanesville not to sell liquor during the Muskingum County Centennial Fair, Sept. 13-17.

The mayor of Greenville announced the closing of liquor spots during the Darke county fair, Aug. 18-23, but rescinded the order when he learned the state liquor store there had not been ordered closed by state officials.

Peace Session Adjourns After Stormy Battle Between President, Russian

DELEGATE IGNORES CHAIR

Molotov Aide Makes Speech While Bidault Tries To Quiet Him

PARIS, Aug. 10 — The peace conference wrangled angrily today over whether Albania should be permitted to come to the sessions and finally postponed a decision after an uproarious debate in which Chairman Georges Bidault vainly pounded his gavel and sounded a clanging gong attempting to chase off another speech by Soviet delegate Andrei Y. Vishinsky.

Vishinsky who first rose to fame as prosecutor of the famous Moscow purge trials and Bidault have been tangling since yesterday afternoon when the Soviet delegate sarcastically challenged Bidault's selection of items for the meeting's agenda.

Today the clash was renewed when Vishinsky rose and launched into a speech in Russian without waiting for recognition from Bidault.

The French foreign minister angrily rapped his gavel but the flow of Russian words continued unbroken. Angered Bidault clanged the gong which is only used to open and conclude sessions.

Vishinsky went right on talking. Amid mounting turmoil Bidault tried to get Vishinsky to pay attention to his role as presiding officer but the Russian spoke on, completely ignoring Bidault.

When Vishinsky finally sat down Bidault angrily ordered that for the record Vishinsky's speech would be ignored.

The session then was adjourned until Monday without a decision on the Albanian question which provoked a slashing debate between Greek Premier Constantin Tsaldaris and Mosha Pijade, Yugoslav delegate, who charged that the Greek had made "a cold-blooded proposal" to divide Albania between Yugoslavia and Greece.

Vishinsky finally won formal recognition from Bidault and said: "I was not saying anything derogatory about our president. I respect him. The trouble is that Bidault speaks only French and I speak Russian. I am very sorry the President was disturbed and parted."

CLOTHING COSTS TO RISE MORE, PORTER STATES

WASHINGTON, Aug. 10 — Price Administrator Paul Porter said today that clothing prices will continue to increase until sometime next year.

In his weekly radio address, Porter said that "the average cost of clothing will probably go up considerably for a while."

But, he added, "I think there is good reason to expect that the average cost of clothing will come down somewhat during 1947 as supplies expand and as competition reasserts itself, bringing more lower priced clothing into the market."

In addition to clothing costs, he said the nation's consumers also will have to "reckon with" higher retail prices on some other commodities, including automobiles.

Porter believed ending of subsidies under the new OPA law will result in "some increase in the cost of living."

"But on the whole I'm confident that the increase in your cost of living above the level of last June can be held to a small amount—provided all the anti-inflation powers under the law are used effectively," he added.

tionally that he disturbed the August bell at his elbow.

"I had no intention of gagging the debate. All I wanted to do was shorten the discussion. But if you gentlemen wish to continue it is all right with me. But I should like to remark that I hope the bell will be a little quieter in the future."

Some delegates who had understood that Vishinsky was fluent in French and also has been studying English for some time indicated surprise at his remark.

However, Bidault finally closed the incident by saying:

"I did not ring the bell. It was rung by article 62 of our rules of procedure."

Delegates laughed heartily.

Before the angry debate was over, however, Yugoslavia agreed to a Czechoslovak compromise under which Albania would have a chance to present her case to the conference but would not receive a formal consultative role.

Secretary of State James F. Byrnes also agreed to this plan and it was expected to be approved at the Monday session.

Debate on Albanian application for admission to the conference erupted in ugly charges as the eastern and western groups lined up on opposite sides.

Tsaldis shouted a denial that he ever made a proposal for the division of Albania. He tried to get the floor as soon as the Yugoslav translation ended. Chairman George Bidault ruled he was out of order. Nevertheless he uttered his denial from his seat.

Pijade also charged that the Greeks were trying here to maneuver a conference deal to divide Albania between Greece and Yugoslavia.

Pijade charged that the present Greek government is following a policy of "fomenting war in the Balkans."

Vishinsky denounced most of Tsaldis' statements about Albania as false.

"Tsaldis," he said, "says the Albanian army is a creation of the allied powers. This is a false statement. It would be true if it was said about the Greek army."

"Tsaldis is spreading false rumors about the part Albania played alongside the Allies but if you analyze his statements you soon find out that none of his arguments correspond to the facts."

VERNON, WALKER KEEP LEAD IN HITTING RACE

NEW YORK, Aug. 10.—With Washington's Jim Vernon and Brooklyn's Dixie Walker holding their usual top positions in their respective circuits, major league teams drove into the hot mid-August grind today with few changes in the batting standings and with fielding running a poor second to heavy hitting.

Walker, hitting .373 as the Dodgers began a series against the Phillies at Shibe park, led Boston's Johnny Niggli by nine points, according to statistics released today, not including Friday's full schedule of night games. Hopp, hitting .364, had dropped 17 points since July 26 when he held the lead.

Stan Musial of the Cardinals, batting .356, Johnny Mize of the Giants, hitting .339, and Phil Cavaretta of the Cubs, batting .309, completed the National's big five.

In the American, Vernon stayed on top with a .355 percentage, while Ted Williams of Boston, idle during most of the week, remained second with a .348 average.

Johnny Pesky of the Red Sox helped to cover Williams' absence by hitting at a .331 pace to take third position while George Kell of Detroit and Hank Edwards of Cleveland stayed in the 4-5 spots with respective averages of .324 and .323.

Both league leaders continued to lead in club batting, the Red Sox topping the American with a steady .282 percentage while Brooklyn lost six points during the week but continued to outpace the other National teams with a .266 average.

NEW LAKES IN OHIO MUST WAIT LOWER PRICES

COLUMBUS, Aug. 10.—Ohio fishermen will have to wait until all inflationary trends have subsided before they can obtain new water tracts for their sport.

This was the result of a meeting yesterday of the state conservation and natural resources commission. It was decided that construction of new fishing haunts would be delayed until building materials could be obtained in greater quantity and cheaper.

Construction was to have been carried out on lakes in Madison, Adams, Brown, Hocking and Perry counties. A total of $65,000 was to have been spent by the commission and the highway department was to have borne the rest of the cost.

The commission also decided to undertake tests in Atwood lake, Muskingum conservancy district, and in Lorain lake, Shelby county, for the destruction of carp and carp spawn. Rotenone was mentioned for use in eliminating spawn and drainage was forecast to destroy gizzard carp, an undesirable game fish.

Because of the cut in the duck hunting season by the federal government the commission voted to allow three days of duck hunting each week instead of two at the east harbor marshes in Lake Erie.

efforts to hammer out a compromise solution on the controversial Palestine situation.

President Truman told his news conference late yesterday that negotiations on the Holy Land's problems, as far as the United States was concerned, had been tabled for the weekend.

The President said he had not made up his mind about a British plan to divide Palestine into four federated states before 100,000 European Jews would be sent there.

In side stepping most questions related to the Palestine crisis, the President voiced his displeasure that parts of the British partitioning plan had been released in London. He held that information of the proposal should not have been disclosed while it is being considered by the two governments.

Part of the chief executive's reluctance to discuss the thorny problem was attributed to that fact that he has not yet conferred with members of his special cabinet committee on Palestine.

Recommendations on the matter are being drafted by the committee, composed of Acting Secretary of State Dean Acheson, Secretary of Treasury John W. Snyder and Secretary of War Robert P. Patterson.

U. S. APPROVES POLISH CREDIT OF $40,000,000

WASHINGTON, Aug. 10.—Polish-American relations, troubled for months, were eased today after the state department gave the export-import bank the go ahead sign for grant of a suspended $40,000,000 credit to Poland.

U. S. intent to give Poland the credit was announced in April. It was held up because of Poland's failure to provide this country with requested information on her trade relations with Russia and other countries.

Other blocks to the credit voiced by the state department centered on criticism of U. S. Ambassador Arthur Bliss Lane by Polish president Boleslaw Bierut, a U. S. request for a free and unfettered Polish election; and alleged Polish censorship of outgoing American news dispatches.

Grant of the $40,000,000 credit for purchase of locomotives and coal cars in the United States brings recent U. S. financial assistance to Poland to $90,000,000.

to be maintained in the regions which will be evacuated as a result of the control of those responsible.

The statement said: "General Marshall and Dr. Stuart have been exploring together every possibility for terminating the present growing conflict in China and for initiation of preliminary steps in the development of a truly democratic form of government."

"A desire for a peaceful solution to the political problems appears practically unanimous on the part of the people. The economic situation demands a prompt solution if a disastrous collapse is to be avoided."

"The fighting daily is growing more widespread and threatens to engulf the country and pass beyond the control of those responsible."

"Both government and Communist leaders are anxious to put an end to the fighting but there are certain issues concerned in the immediate settlements involved regarding which agreement has not been found."

"It appears impossible for the two parties to reach settlement of those issues which would permit a general order to be issued for complete cessation of hostilities in all China."

"Certain of the unsettled issues relate to military relocations of troops. However, these present less difficulty of settlement than the more fundamental issue concerning the character of local or county government to be maintained in regions which will be evacuated as a result of military relocations pending a basic decision in assembly."

000,000 bushels than the estimated 3,496,820,000.

Agriculture experts attributed the difference between the department's estimates and actual production to two factors — the increased use of hybrid corn and generally favorable August growing weather.

"If August weather is good this year—and so far it has been—the estimates may be exceeded again," the spokesman believed.

Meanwhile, it was pointed out that the new increases in the prospective wheat crop may make it possible to lift restrictions on the use of wheat, except in the case of distillers and feed millers.

Continuing wheat restrictions on those two groups would not matter too much, officials said, because they can use corn just as well, if not better, than wheat.

Lifting of other wheat restrictions would mean a return to whiter bread, normal-sized loaves and more flour, bread, cereals and pastries. Millers now are limited to 87 percent of last year's flour production.

In addition to wheat and corn, production of oats, rice, cotton, clover and timothy hay, dry beans, sweet potatoes, tobacco, sugar cane, sugar beets, broomcorn and hops are expected to increase over last year.

Decreases are anticipated in production of barley, rye, buckwheat, flaxseed, grain sorghums, tame hay, wild hay, alfalfa hay, dry peas, soybeans, cowpeas, peanuts and potatoes. But many of those crops will show only slight drops.

The greatly increased supplies of corn and wheat also will mean more livestock feed which, in turn, will mean more meat, poultry, eggs and dairy products.

BILBO ADMITS K K K CHARGES

40, Mississippi. I attended one meeting and have not attended it since, because I was not in sympathy with some of the things in it.

"No man can leave the Klan. He takes an oath not to do that. He is—once a Ku Klux, always a Ku Klux," he said.

Bilbo was asked how he could take an oath to uphold the constitution and still be a member of the Klan. He replied, "I am not informed that the Ku Klux Klan, as I know it, is seeking to undermine the government. It is only the Communist party of the United States that is seeking to do that by force."

Bilbo accused Pulitzer prize winner Harding Carter, publisher of the Greenville, Miss. Times of misrepresenting the true picture of living conditions in Mississippi.

"When they talk about the low standards of the people of Mississippi, they predicate that by lumping the Negro race into our white population and consider them all together which gives us a low rating."

"But, if you will take the white people of Mississippi, the standard of the citizenship in literacy and in information and intelligence and patriotism is above the citizenship of Pennsylvania, New Jersey, New York or Massachusetts," Bilbo said.

He said Mississippi was taking steps to have private party elections instead of state primary elections to keep the Negro from having a voice in Democratic nominations—equivalent to election.

The step would be taken, he said, "so the supreme court can't monkey with our business."

DIVORCE SUIT FILED

Claiming that her husband sold their house furnishings June 5, 1945, and "left for parts unknown," Mrs. Fairy Davis, 731 South Seibert street, filed suit for divorce in Pickaway county common pleas court, Saturday, accusing Wilbur Davis of gross neglect of duty. Her petition says they were married May 25, 1940, at Chillicothe and that they are childless.

LOWLANDS HARMONY

THE best European news for some time is that the Netherlands, Belgium and Luxembourg have agreed on a customs union. By the end of 1947 it is expected that there will be no more tariff barriers between the three states.

This is the first step toward a unification of Europe which many believe to be a vital step toward a world government. While the Dutch and Belgians are next-door neighbors, like other next-door neighbors, they have not always been on good terms with each other. When the Dutch won their independence from Spain in 1579, the Belgian provinces chose to remain behind. Napoleon forcibly reunited them under French rule, and the settlement after his fall kept them together for 15 years. In 1830 the Belgians revolted, and they have gone their own way ever since. If they have tended towards union with any other country, it has been France.

World War II taught the Lowlanders, if they did not know it before, that small countries need a broader base if they are to survive. The proposed customs union may be a forerunner of a closer association.

THE VICIOUS CIRCLE

THE news reports say that cotton clothing is to cost more, and so are canned vegetables. These are only two of the thousands of items which cost more now than they did a year ago.

So a lot of striking employees have had their wages raised. So everything costs more. So what? They are no better off than before the wages were raised. If that were all, one might conclude that neither are they worse off. But that is not all. There are hundreds of thousands of people on fixed incomes whom no strike would help. These people really suffer from the inflationary prices.

Is there any way of checking the spiral? Only the coming up of production can do it. Fortunately production in general does seem to be increasing. The hope is that it may increase fast enough to prevent keen distress for the fixed income groups.

HUMBLE HOLLYWOOD

NOT everybody in the movies makes fabulous salaries. The Screen Office and Professional Employees Guild, CIO, announces that 44.5 per cent of its members earn less than $30 a week. Only 19.2 per cent make as much as $40 a week.

Evidently Hollywood is not exclusively composed of Cary Grants and Jane Russells.

The railroad which is going to eliminate ticket lines in depots is shattering another American institution.

Need a house? So do 30,000 Parisians, which should mean something in terms of international sympathy.

NEWS BEHIND THE NEWS

By PAUL MALLON

WASHINGTON, Aug. 10—A Princeton professor and a federal works agency employee, acting as authors, conducted a poll of nine "liberals" (mostly selected government officers or congressmen), asking why the confusion exists in their ranks, and the remedy. As confusion breeds confusion, all they got was more confusion.

The case offers a typical example of what is wrong with "liberalism", if you will pry behind it to the source—which would never be apparent to some of these people. Having chased carelessly after slogans, built up pressure groups and never having devoted any independent or objective thought to the matter, naturally they get the confusion which has been inbred into them.

They should have started with the word "liberal". With utmost simplicity they should have looked in the dictionary. It comes from liberty. Now liberty happens to be the opposite of what they have been seeking in recent years, the opposite of ganging up in pressure groups (like Fascism and Communism), the opposite of chasing after foolish slogans which have proved false. They have failed to give any independent thought to the matter. They are not themselves free. They do not think in terms of liberty—but rather in terms of totalitarianism and regimentation in a kind of goose-stepping democracy. They have forgotten "liberalism". That is the trouble with "liberalism". It is not liberal.

Now they have progressed far enough since Roosevelt to learn some of the terms of liberalism. The respondents to this poll spoke of "freedom of opportunity" as being the big thing now—at least two of the nine mentioned it. But so does Russia, where the word liberty has been corrupted to mean anything a totalitarian, regimented state directed by a single authority wants at a given moment, including the abandonment of liberty, individual human liberty—the very thing our "liberals" were fighting against during the war. But even before Russia thought of it, and corrupted it, a real guarantee of the same thing was in the Constitution of the United States. Indeed two other respondents to the poll quoted words of the Constitution, saying: "liberalism is the greatest good for the greatest number of people." But this also is the theory in Russia, as it was the theory of Fascism or any state that wants to make itself tyrannical and dictatorial, with a one party system, suppressing all opposition.

But liberalism challenged all reason and took this Communism to its bosom, this thing of "democracy", "freedom" and "liberalism" which meant only license to operate for itself, "democracy" run in absurd elections, "freedom" controlled so thoroughly as to throttle any freedom. They let it into unions, into politics, into education, into books, but worst of all—into their thinking.

Their doctrines now have failed them. In a time of employment shortages—shortages mind you—the preached unemployment compensation, the opposite of what was needed. When work was plentiful, they advocated pay for the idle. In an era of inflation, their doctrine urged spending (can you believe it?), which was likewise the opposite of what was plainly needed. Theirs were doctrines calculated to destroy the best interests of a free people.

DIET AND HEALTH

Infections That Affect The Kidneys

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D.

AMONG the hardest working of the body's organs are the kidneys, and the work they do is all-important. One of their chief duties is to act as a filter. Just as the lungs serve to supply the blood with oxygen, so the kidneys help to keep the blood always pure.

Here in the complicated and elaborate filtering plant of the kidneys, the body gets rid of its chemical wastes, the toxins of fatigue and the harmful by-products of tissue destruction and repair, which if not eliminated, would act as fatal poisons.

Vital Function

It is this vital function of the kidneys which makes any disease or infection of their tissue such a hazardous matter when not properly cared for.

Germ have three avenues of approach to these important organs. They may pass upward through the bladder from outside the body. They may be carried to the kidneys through the blood stream or they may be carried in the tissue fluid or lymph, through the lymphatic channels from nearby organs. If infection occurs in the kidneys, the usual course of events is for it to pass downward into the bladder through the ureters which are the tubes which connect the kidneys with the bladder.

The part of the kidney where the urine collects before it passes out of the body is known as the pelvis of the kidney. If the pelvis becomes infected, the kidney itself also is affected. If the infection is mild, complete healing may take place without any damaging after-effects.

Severe Infection

However, if the infection is more severe, scarring of the kidney frequently occurs. This scar tissue contracts as does scar tissue in any part of the body, and thus interferes with the action of the kidney. Then what is known as chronic nephritis results. This, in turn, may produce high blood pressure.

The combined infection of the kidney pelvis and the kidney substance is known as pyelonephritis. If a person has had repeated infections of the urinary organs such as the kidneys and bladder, a careful study is always advisable to determine if pyelonephritis is present. This study should include frequent examinations of the urine, X-rays of the kidney called pyelograms which are made with the X-ray after injecting certain substances into a vein that, in turn, are excreted by the kidney. These substances make the urinary tract visible in the X-ray.

Symptoms of Disease

When a person has pyelonephritis, he has such symptoms as pain in the back and abdomen, frequent emptying of the bladder, pain on emptying of the bladder, and burning. Other symptoms which may be present are chills, fever, and prostration.

Just what treatment will be used for pyelonephritis will depend on the type of germ which is causing the trouble. For this reason, the physician will culture the urine to determine the type of germ present. Then he can tell which of the wonder-working new drugs to employ.

For example, for the streptococcus, penicillin will be used. The sulfonamide drugs are employed in other types of infection while a preparation known as mandelic acid is usually employed for the colon bacillus infections.

Because of the importance of the kidneys to the health of the whole body, anything which affects their ability to carry on their work is deserving of immediate attention and prompt treatment by the doctor.

CHAPTER TWENTY-NINE
FLO WAS relieved, on reaching the hotel, to find that Neil had gone out. But she came in, a half-hour later.

"Where do you think I've been?" She did not wait for Flo to question her. "With old Doctor Rich! It was a most profitable visit! He's a chatty old dear, more familiar with the past than with the present. I was a new listener."

Flo waited, a sudden distaste for Neil's "research" keeping her silent.

Neil went on, musingly now, and more as if she were reviewing it to herself than informing Flo. "Apparently Doctor Rich thought a good deal of Mary Patten's father—spoke of him as the most intellectual and faithful man he'd ever had on his faculty, devoted to his work. . . . He wasn't so enthusiastic about Mrs. Cathcart. Said she was a pretty, frail woman, rather discontented. . . . That she didn't share many of John Cathcart's interests, or find the college atmosphere congenial. That fits in with the picture your mother gave me—her father indifferent to everything outside of his work and her mother, always dissatisfied."

Flo bit her lips to keep them from crying out. "Oh, leave them alone!" Hadn't Neil herself said you could never really know a person?

"He said one thing about Mary Patten that may be the thread I need—that he never had known a young person who was so wholly material. He was fond of her—he spoke of her as a most interesting child. But he said that even when she was little she had none of the illusions most children cherish—no Santa Claus or Easter Bunnies for her! Her head always controlled her affections." He said that, too. She got up from her chair, stretching a little. "What did you get with your tea?"

"Nothing," said Flo. She was not going to tell Neil of the impressions her afternoon had left with her, hear Neil catalogue them. . . .

"Was it too awfully boring?" "Not at all! It was—very pleasant."

To Flo, suddenly, it was more than that. It was something she would like to remember all her life, though she couldn't say why. But she would not speak of any of it. She said, "Miss Gordon was awfully interesting, but she talked mostly about the college. She's been there years and years—she called herself a back-door pillar."

"I heard quite a bit about the college, too!" Neil's eyes were reflective. "I've more respect for it than I had. It must have a great deal to give, with a man like sweet, old Doctor Rich putting his whole life into it. Now, I'll go and bathe."

At the door she turned. "I was thinking, coming back to the hotel, that you might drive on tomorrow somewhere on the lake for a few days. Does that appeal to you?"

"Oh, I'd love it," cried Flo, quickly. Neil gave her a quizzical look. "Had enough of Midland? Well, I have, too, I think. We'll check out."

It was her first day in her new office. She paused outside of the door, to look at her name across the panel, "Mary Patten." No more than that, as if the name in itself explained her position in the firm. When she opened the door, she found the room filled with baskets and vases of flowers. A chorus of voices met her, too. She saw quickly that every department of the organization was represented in the welcoming group. She was moved and could only repeat, "Thank you," over and over as each one shook her hand and offered some good wish for her future.

Celia Peavy said excitedly, "I put the cards that came with the flowers all together, Mrs. Patten. But see this basket of delphiniums—the girls in filing sent it!"

"That was very kind of them. It is kind of all of you to start me off like this!"

"Well, you deserve it," said Celia Peavy, moved to kindness herself by the acclaim. She felt promoted, too.

"Sort of a milestone, isn't it?" said Gordon Hughes, the treasurer of the company. He moved toward the door. "But I haven't heard the day declared a holiday!"

They filed out, after a little more, and Mary Patten sat down at her new desk. She sat forward in her chair, smiling, her fingers on the fine walnut of the impressive desk, and recalled the first day she had worked for the company when she had been of less importance than Celia Peavy, no more than a robot to James Muir. And now. . . . Her glance went proudly over the flowers that lined the room. "I'll call Charlie, she must come in and see them!"

Irresistibly she closed her eyes, to hug closer into her heart the memory of Charlie and Ollie Kingdon the night before.

She called Charlie later in the morning. "Can you come in some time this afternoon? I'm literally entrenched in flowers. . . . Yes, I'm very happy! I'll see you around three!"

Throughout the morning she looked for James Muir to come in. She would thank him, then. He was in his office, she knew. Twice during the morning his secretary had come in with letters.

Mias Peavy usually went out for her lunch on the minute of half-past twelve but today, still excited, she let the time pass, unnoticed. She was typing energetically in her room when James Muir opened the door from the corridor.

Mary Patten rose quickly, smiling, from her chair, her hand outstretched. "I hoped you would come! See how perfect everything is! I'm a little alarmed at having to live up to it. . . ." She stopped, aware that he was not hearing a word of what she was saying. Nor had he noticed the hand she held out to him.

He nodded toward Mias Peavy's room. "Send her out!"

Mary Patten pressed a buzzer. When Celia Peavy appeared she said quietly, "Will you go out for your lunch now, Mias Peavy?"

"I was finishing those letters. . . . The secretary's eyes went from Mary Patten to James Muir's stiff back at the window. "I'll go, of course, right off."

When the doors closed behind her, James Muir swung around from the window with a look on his face that Mary Patten never had seen before. She had seen him angry, wary, secretive, smug, but this expression was—fear.

"One of your girls is married to young Renner on the Star, isn't she?"

"Yes, Charlie."

"Have you seen this stuff he's writing? Been in two nights so far, more to come."

"I read the first one. I thought it was rather well written but nothing new in it. Wasn't that housing project given a good deal of publicity a year or so ago?"

James Muir frowned. "You didn't read last night's? He's making more direct accusations of bribery—oh, carefully worded, of course; he isn't going to risk any libel suit, but if it goes on, it'll rouse a lot of conjecture, get a pack of reformers on the scent. . . ."

"Isn't it just one of the things newspapers put on before an election?" asked Mary Patten, speaking at random because she was holding her thoughts completely still until he said more.

For answer, he brought one flat down hard on the desk. "It's got to be stopped!"

Mary Patten knew this expression—his eyes and mouth hard as granite. But she saw fine beads of sweat on his thin temples.

"I could go to Benning. He'd stop it, quick enough. He's no fool—he'd see what his paper'd lose if he allowed those stories to go on. I've the figures on the advertising we gave him the first six months of this year. But if there's any other way, I'd rather take it."

"He's concerned for some friend," Mary Patten told herself.

. . . and it occurred to me you could handle it. You're young Renner's mother-in-law. He's probably got an itch to get ahead—offer him a place in the advertising department here. Name a salary Renner can't refuse, now he has your girl to support!"

Mary Patten did not say, I offered him a place in the advertising and he refused it! Nor did she say, though, somehow she knew it, "He isn't the kind you can buy." She picked up a pencil, turned it in her fingers slowly around and around, looking down at it, considering. There were other ways. . . .

At the same time she was aware of a feeling of shock, deep within her, and a strange reluctance to look up into the face of this man whom she had admired for so long, respected for his strength. . . .

He demanded sharply, "Well, what do you think of that?"

She put the pencil down. "I'll talk to Trent."

James Muir got to his feet. "Fine! I'll leave it to you, Mary. He gave her a thin smile, patted her shoulder and started toward the door. But halfway there he turned and came back, drawn perhaps by the still way she sat, her head a little bent.

"I guess you know I'm the man young Renner's gunning for!" He spoke harshly.

"Yes."

"The most he can accomplish is a lot of trouble and unpleasant publicity. Any good lawyer could prove in court that what he calls bribery is just plain business—money paid for a service rendered. I bought up that property and I'm protecting my investment and the others who went in with me, and any jury'd say that a man has a right to do that!"

Into Mary Patten's mind sprang the memory of an occasion when Giles had shouted in this same way. He had been telling her of a new client who had come to him. "Defend him? He's guilty as heck! I threw him out on his ear!"

She had been angry, too, but not at the crook. He would have paid Giles a very big fee and they had needed the money.

"See what I mean, Mary? You agree with me that I'm right?"

"Yes. You've every right to protect your interests. . . ."

She was answering that moment's memory of Giles, as well as James Muir.

James Muir put his hand on her shoulder again. "I can always depend on your loyalty! And hang it, that's the best investment I ever made!"

STAR SAY—

For Saturday, August 10

WHILE there appears to be a dubious contact of conflicting planetary forces, there may be a consolidation of forces, with a view to sound values, of far-reaching and enduring effect on the future and its security, peace and happiness.

Although there may be sound growth, increased values in securities, real prosperity and the returns or work well done or obligations dutifully performed, there might be a proclivity to reach too high in this direction, to squander the resources, energies or health even on such practical objectives. Extravagance, splurging or excess may lose out.

Those whose birthday it is may look to a year of accumulated real values, with a consolidation of property, assets, funds and possessions of tangible nature, or of position and jobs of lasting promise. Yet, a tendency to splurge, show off, to be over-generous in gifts, or in excess in energies or other outlay, may exact penalties and defeat sound plans and purposes for future peace, comfort and security.

A child born on this day may have strong urges to take care of the future and to meet its obligations faithfully, yet it may underlie some sound intentions by excesses, generosity or extravagance.

For Sunday, August 11
SUNDAY'S horoscope holds promise of a very definite and concrete assembling of the energies, faculties and resources upon consolidating the position, putting the job or employment on an enduring basis.

In this, obligation, responsibilities and duty are involved, affecting the home, friends, elders and, too, ecclesiastical matters. Those whose birthday it is may have a year in which the energies, faculties and resources may

"The Authority on Authorities"

ARE SIX AGAINST YOU?

IN ORDINARY circumstances, a trump suit is dangerous if your opponents hold as many as six trumps against you, but comparatively safe if they have five. So, if your partner had bid one major suit twice before then calling the other major—showing at least six cards in the first against only four in the second—you may have a clear choice between a good and a bad trump suit. If you hold two cards in his first suit, your side has eight and the defense only five, whereas if you have three in the second suit, your side has just seven and the opponents six, with one probably holding four.

North went to 4-Spades, instead of 4-Hearts, because he had "better support" for spades, as he described it. Actually he had worse, as two cards are sound support for a six-carder whereas three are one too few for a four-carder. North really had two better bids available than 4-Spades, as he had No Trump stoppers in both minors and a No Trump game would have been makable.

Looking at all the cards, anybody can see how to make game at Spades, but South struggled vainly for down two by average play. He won the diamond 4 lead with the K, finessed the heart J to the Q, got the next diamond with the A, led to the spade A, finessed the spade J to the Q, ruffed the returned diamond to the spade 9, led the club 3 to the A, ruffed the fourth diamond with the spade K, took the heart A, ruffed the heart 10 with the spade 6, scored the club K and then had to give up two trump tricks to East. He had lost three tricks to spades plus a heart and a club.

In 4-Hearts, the most ordinary player should have rolled home, losing just one trick each in hearts and clubs and one in spades unless he played the suit badly.

What kind of situation, disclosed by the bidding, is most likely to make an opening trump lead desirable?

A child born on this day may have excellent sense of obligation, duty and loyalty, on which it will concentrate its energies. A tendency to prodigality, generosity or extravagance may interfere with its laudable purpose.

WASHINGTON—Senator Alben Barkley, putting the Senate press gallery in a good humor at late session the other evening: "The way some of you gentlemen take sides in this OPA question reminds me of the old maid who went into the furniture store and told the clerk she wanted to buy twin beds. 'I've always slept in a double bed,' she told the clerk. 'But, madam, if you're single—' 'I live alone,' she hastened to inform him. 'Every night I look under the bed to see if there's a man. Jesus and Home Relationships

By NEWMAN CAMPBELL
(The International Uniform Lesson on the above topic for Aug. 11 is Exodus 20:12, Matthew 7:9-12; Mark 7:9-13; Luke 2:41-52; Ephesians 6:1-4; Hebrews 12:7-11, the Memory Verse being Exodus 20:12, "Honor thy father and thy mother, that thy days may be long in the land which the Lord thy God giveth thee.")

"HONOR THY father and thy mother, that thy days may be long in the land which the Lord thy God giveth thee." So reads Exodus 20:12.

Since the end of the war, juvenile delinquency has been a tremendous problem of the whole United States—and other countries, too. What is wrong? The homes of the nations are suspect. Broken homes, homes where mothers work away and therefore cannot give proper attention to their growing children. Homes where parents are interested in other things than the training of their children in law-abiding ways. All these are partly to blame.

How can children brought up in homes such as these "honor" their fathers and mothers? Instead they often despise and resent them and blame their faults on them.

Such parents are, of course, in the minority. If we look about us at our friends, their friends, the clubs we know in our churches, people, etc., we see conscientious parents doing their best to bring up their children in God-fearing ways. But there are far too many of the other sort, and everyone—including the parents—suffer because of this state of affairs.

Parents Have Responsibilities
With so much brutality and hatred engendered in the world, parents have a tremendous responsibility for the morals of the coming generation. On the hopeful side is the fact that many more parents are interested in and are studying child training from experts and trying to understand and help their children to take their places as good Christian citizens.

We have recently had in our lesson the story of Jesus and His parents going to Jerusalem for the Passover, and Jesus being found by His father and mother in the temple talking with the priests. The only part, therefore, that we will mention here, is the fact that He returned to Nazareth with His people, and submitted Himself to them thereafter. "And Jesus increased in wisdom and stature, and in favor with God and man."

and man." This is the only story we have concerning Jesus' childhood and only Luke tells it. But it suggests that He was an obedient child. He had brothers and sisters, you know, but there must have been love, obedience and happiness in that home.

Jesus compares the good father with the fatherhood of God when He asks, "What man is there of you, whom if his son ask bread, will he give him a stone? Or if he ask a fish, will he give him a serpent?" How much more, then, will God, our loving heavenly Father, give us. His children, good things if we earnestly ask Him?

Jesus Rebukes the Pharisees
Jesus rebuked the Pharisees and "certain of the scribes" when they complained that the disciples did not wash their hands before eating in the ceremonial use of the Jews, or the cups and pots and brazen vessels. He called them hypocrites who observed the letter of the law, but when it came to taking care of their old parents they resorted to tricks. A man could say to his needy parents "Corban," a gift to the Lord, and still could take profits from it for his own use and be free of caring for his parents. "Ye reject the commandment of God, that ye may keep your own tradition," He told them.

In a letter to the Ephesians, written from Rome, Paul repeats the instruction of honoring and obeying parents, and adds to it, "Children," he says, obey your parents in the Lord, for this is right. "Honor thy father and mother; which is the first commandment with promise." The promise is that they shall live long in the land that the Lord their God gave them. Then Paul writes, "And ye, fathers, provoke not your children to wrath: but bring them up in the nurture and admonition of the Lord."

All parents make mistakes, of course; they are too indulgent and then too strict. They lose their tempers just as we all do, and are not always wise. But the good parent does try to control his own nature; to be just, understanding and loving to his child. He tries not only by words of rebuke, counsel and advice, but by his example, to teach them the way they should live. Such a parent should be honored all his days, and after he has passed on he is never forgotten. Such parents try to live as God, their Father, would have them, and their children "rise up and call them blessed."

Jesus and Home Relationships

If ye, being evil, know how to give good gifts unto your children, how much more shall your Father which is in heaven give good things to them that ask Him?

ILLUSTRATED SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

Scripture—Exodus 20:12; Mat. 7:9-12; Mark 7:9-13; Luke 2:41-52; Eph. 6:1-4; Hebrews 12:7-11.

By Alfred J. Buecher

Jesus told the Pharisees, "Full well ye reject the commandments of God, that ye may keep your own tradition. For Moses said, 'Honor thy father and thy mother.'"

After Jesus' adventure in the temple in Jerusalem, He went down to Nazareth with His parents, and was subject unto them, and increased in stature and in wisdom.

"Children obey your parents in the Lord; for this is right. Honor thy father and mother; which is the first commandment with promise."

CUBAN LEAGUE BRINGS NEW BASEBALL HEADACHE

MEXICO CITY, Aug. 10 — Organized baseball in the U. S. faced another problem today when Eloy Garcia, president of a team in the Cuban Winter baseball league, said that he was signing players from the Mexican League.

Many players in American baseball play in Cuba in the winter, and the question will arise whether the Americans can continue to play in a league which uses "outlaw" players. The U. S. baseball authorities regard the Mexican loop as "outlaw."

NEWS Behind the NEWS

By PAUL MALLON

(Continued from Page Four) and to enforce the destruction by their own dictatorship through a one party system here, (by control of all parties through their political action group. Why, in the depths to which their unreason had plunged them, they not only chased "isolationists" and "fascists" through the war, they are still chasing them now more than a year after they were defeated, put into jail, put on trial, are no longer powerful but practically extinct. But if they will only look at the newspapers they will see how unrealistic their course is. Read the report for instance, of Molotov warning the peace conference of the danger of war from Spain—Great, big Russia with an army more than six times ours in size, armed to the teeth, protected by censorship, firing on our plans, detaining American soldiers, conducting (through the doctrines of communism) a war in China and urging us to withdraw so she can conquer it—this militant giant fears Spain. The bristling bear fears the defeated mouse!

If they will only stop to think, it was not the "isolationists" who blocked their "peace hopes for world cooperation—but Russia. It was Russia which has vetoed their plans, refused to accept their theories.

These are some of the basic reasons for their confusion. Their doctrines have failed them. These failed because they were violations of the word liberal to begin with. They have been caught running the errands of Communism and Marxism. They hanker to return to the constitution, but they do not propose to make the words mean anything. They have no doctrine. They speak of "freedom of opportunity," but they do not make it mean individual freedom, only license for a ruling political class, which is the opposite of individual freedom. They are still running after the mice for the bear to eat, indeed they have pushed the bear along.

If they wish to abandon their confusion, they can find a good sound liberal doctrine in the back numbers of this column from the very beginning of their deviations from truth, honesty and individuality of thought. There they can find a true liberalism which said what it meant and meant what it said.

Opinions expressed by the writer in this column are the views of the author and not necessarily those of the Circleville Herald.

DODGERS HOLD MARGIN AS BOTH LEADERS WIN

Brooklyn Edges Phillies As Cards Beat Reds; Bosox 14 Games Ahead

NEW YORK, Aug. 10 — Pete Reiser, Peeewe Reese and Dixie Walker, one-third of the Brooklyn Dodgers team on paper and nine-tenths of it on the field, appeared capable today of making this peculiar mathematical formula equal a National League pennant.

The Dodgers, who theoretically have no business arguing with the St. Louis Cardinals, are two games on top today because in almost every game either Reiser, Walker or Reese has come through with a timely hit or sparkling field play. On some days they are assisted by Eddie Stanky or one of the "youth movement" outfielders or by a pitcher with unsuspected ability, which lasts for that game only.

Last night it was Reiser and Reese who provided the punch, with an assist from pitcher Kirby Higbe. Higbe twirled a five-hit shutout over the Phillies and Reese's double and Reiser's single in the eighth inning scored the only run of the game.

It was the Dodgers' 11th 1946 victory over the Phils against no losses.

The Cardinals grimly held on in second place by beating the Cincinnati Reds, 5 to 2, with a 16-hit attack that included Joe Garagiola's first big-league homer and Whitey Kurowski's 12th of the season. Kurowski got four hits and batted in three runs.

Lenny Merullo got three doubles and a single as the Chicago Cubs, still hopeful of sneaking into the pennant, trounced Pittsburgh, 9 to 3. The Cubs got 15 hits to allow Paul Erickson to coast to victory.

Warren Spahn outpitched three New York Giant hurlers to give the Boston Braves a 5 to 3 victory, although New York outhit Boston, seven to five. The Braves bunched three hits in the first inning with an error, a walk, a sacrifice and a long fly for three runs, and their other two hits came in a two-run fifth inning. Sid Gordon led New York with three hits, including a home run.

The Yankees' slim hopes for a miracle vanished into the left field seats in the sixth inning last night along with a three-run homer by Rudy York that carried the Boston Red Sox to a 4 to 3 victory. Boston now leads by 14 games.

Detroit, shooting for second place ahead of the Yankees, moved within one game of New York by edging the Chicago White Sox, 5 to 4. Detroit called on Hal Newhouse in the ninth when Al Benton loaded the bases with none out, and Hal allowed only one run to get home. He struck out the last two men. Dick Wakefield paced the Tigers with five hits, including a homer.

Mickey Vernon batted in both runs with a timely single as Washington defeated Philadelphia, 2 to 1. Lum Harris of the A's allowed only five hits to eight off the winner, Mickey Haefer.

Five straight hits in the sixth inning gave the Cleveland Indians five runs and a 5 to 4 victory over the St. Louis Browns. Chet Laabs hit a two-run homer as the Browns rallied for four runs in the seventh.

96 RURAL YOUTH HAVE PHYSICAL CHECKUPS HERE

28 With No Apparent Defects Found In Examinations By Dr. Blackburn

Results of preliminary physical examination of 96 boys and girls enrolled in 4-H clubs in Pickaway county were announced Saturday by Dr. A. D. Blackburn, county health commissioner. The checkup of the youngsters has been in progress during the past few weeks at the county health department office in the courthouse.

Final examinations will be made Monday and Tuesday and soon thereafter, Dr. Blackburn explained, the name of the winner—as the healthiest boy or girl in the county—will be announced.

To be eligible for that honor the boy or girl must be at least 14 years old. As the county's healthiest youth the winner will compete at the Ohio State Fair, Columbus, for the title of healthiest youth in the state and will have the opportunity—if the state title is won—to compete at Chicago this fall at the National Boys' and Girls' Club 1946 Congress for the title of the healthiest youth in the nation.

Of the 96 examined, Dr. Blackburn said, 68 children were found to have defects and 28 possessed no apparent defects. The number with defects corrected was 48, the number having smallpox vaccinations was 57, and 87 had undergone diphtheria immunization. The children ranged in age from 9 years upward. Each will be allowed credit in 4-H work for undergoing the examination. The boys and girls were accompanied by their 4-H club leaders who witnessed the examinations.

The defects found, Dr. Blackburn said, were as follows: 31 needing dental care, 22 with poor vision, 24 with inflamed eyes and other eye defects, 8 with poor hearing, 13 with enlarged tonsils, 2 with heart murmurs, 29 with skin diseases chiefly acne, and 2 with enlarged glands. The corrected defects, the health commissioner said, were: 28 had had teeth filled or other dental work done, 10 wore glasses, and 30 had had tonsils removed. Dr. Blackburn added that 12 children with poor vision had no glasses because the condition had been undiscovered.

The health commissioner said that each 4-H club is entitled to enter one boy or girl for the final examination and that the scoring will be on the basis of 1,000 points. Dr. Blackburn will announce the final winner.

Larry Best, county agricultural agent, said the boy or girl pronounced the healthiest in the county will be sent to the 92nd Ohio State Fair, which will take place Aug. 24-30 at Columbus. The healthiest boys and girls in most of the state's 88 counties will compete at the State Fair, Aug. 26 through 29, for the title of healthiest youth in Ohio.

The various 4-H club winners in the county's health competition as well as the top winner attending the State Fair will also take part in the 4-H program at the Pickaway County Fair, to be held Sept. 11-14.

Tests show that 300 bushels of sweet potatoes fed to dairy cows will produce as much milk and butter fat as 16.36 tons of sorghum silage.

Is Your Business Different from Ours?

Maybe it is. Perhaps your business has not been affected by production difficulties and present day abnormal conditions. Remember, though, that telephone equipment is intricate in design and technical in nature, and it cannot be turned out on a rubber stamp basis. Great care is used in its manufacture, and enormous quantities are needed by telephone companies throughout the United States. Production of telephone equipment is very slow. We must await our turn.
